Through Planned and Major Gifts, such as the Legacy Society, you can help TSF continue its trailblazing work and gain sizable benefits.

What is a Planned Gift?
A Planned Gift is a contribution that is arranged in the present to be given at a future date. Planned Gifts are commonly donated through a will or estate plan.

What are the benefits of a Planned Gift?
Planned Gifts offer significant advantages including:
- Impact the future while keeping your assets today
- Maximize charity giving while minimizing tax spending
- You have the flexibility to change your mind at any time
- You can give as much as you wish depending on your financial situation and philanthropic goals

What is TSF’s Legacy Society?
The Turner Syndrome Foundation’s Legacy Society recognizes individuals and couples who have named TSF as the beneficiary of any type of planned or deferred gift.

How large of a contribution is necessary to join the Legacy Society?
TSF provides opportunities individuals in all financial situations to contribute in a meaningful way. Speak with an attorney or financial advisor to determine which strategy and gift works best for you. If Planned Giving is not within your means, consider becoming an annual donor by making smaller yearly contributions.

Are there different types of Planned Gifts?
Yes. Outright bequests give a percentage of an estate to be used by the affiliate charity. Residual bequests give a percentage of the residual of an estate. Contingent bequests give a percentage of an estate if a certain event occurs.

What assets can be included in Planned Gifts?
Planned Gifts can be funded by a variety of sources including a will or trust, IRA or 401K-retirement plan, a life insurance policy, or a charitable gift annuity.

Am I able to choose what the gift will be used for?
Yes. Bequests can be given for general purposes or you have the ability to specify the purpose of the gift.

How will my gift be used (if not specified)?
Your contribution is an investment in the lives of girls and women affected by Turner Syndrome. These funds help support our awareness, advocacy, education and research programs to achieve the following:
- Inspire professionals to understand the prevalence of TS
- Increase scientific advancements to find more answers
- Improve patient and caregiver support closer to home
- Improve quality of life of all affected
